

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A pliers assembly includes a first body, a second body pivotally connected with the first body, and an elastic member urged between the first body and the second body and entirely sealed by the first body and the second body. Thus, the elastic member is entirely received in the pliers assembly without being exposed outward, thereby preventing the elastic member from springing outward from the pliers assembly when the elastic member is broken, so as to protect the user's safety.